SCREWFIX HELPS LOCAL SCHOOL GO BACK TO NATURE

A generous donation from Screwfix in Hemel Hempstead will help children at the local Broadfield Primary School enjoy an exciting new nature reserve.

The nature reserve will be an on-site educational resource for the school's 460 pupils, featuring a pond, wild flower area, nesting boxes and a stag beetle habitat.

Andy Russell, manager of Screwfix's Hemel Hempstead branch, organised the donation after a chance meeting with headmaster Matthew Heasman at a parents' evening. Donations have included a lawn mower, hedge trimmer, ground control roll and £100.

Andy is thrilled to have been able to help, he comments: "This is a fantastic project and I am so pleased that the school now has the equipment they need to complete the nature reserve. When I bumped into Mr Heasman he explained what a large job the development was and I knew Screwfix would be able to help thanks to our wide range of landscaping equipment."

Headmaster Mr Heasman adds: "I am so grateful to Andy and Screwfix for their kind donation. The nature reserve will offer an exciting new dimension to the education of children at Broadfield for years to come. It is so important that children can experience the great outdoors and we rely on support like this to make our visions a reality."
